Introduction

What is ServeUGA?

ServeUGA is a student organization in the Center for Leadership and Service that advances and promotes a culture of service at UGA. We accomplish this by acting as a resource for The University of Georgia and Athens-Clarke County to empower students to engage directly with the local community through service, education, and advocacy. ServeUGA also promotes service by strengthening collaboration among UGA student organizations and connecting the student body to service-related resources and opportunities. We are composed of an executive board, general members called Service Ambassadors, and approximately 40 student organizations that embrace advocacy, philanthropy, or hands-on service as one of their primary purposes.

How does ServeUGA advance and promote a culture of service?

Serve UGA advances and promotes a culture of service on campus by facilitating one-time and ongoing volunteer opportunities for students to make a positive impact in the local Athens-Clarke county community. Our one time-volunteer opportunities include Dawg Day of Service, MLK Day of Service, Interfaith Day of Service, Homecoming Week of Service and several awareness events. We also organize ongoing, regular volunteering opportunities that are available through our Serve Athens initiative. Through our Serve Athens initiative, we partners with a small number of local non-profit organizations for reoccurring volunteering opportunities. Interested members and organizations can sign up at: <https://uga.givepulse.com/group/114175-ServeUGA> ServeUGA also promotes a culture of service on campus by sharing resources and providing opportunities for service-based organizations to collaborate, while also connecting students to service opportunities across UGA.
